

JULIET EDSON
Lighting Designer
bio

Juliet came to us as an intern and technical support. She has had a passion for architecture and interior design since she was a young girl. Like many Interior Design candidates, Juliet remembers building forts with multiple rooms and preferring Legos and Lincoln Logs over Barbies. After graduating high school Juliet went to Chico State University to study Psychology to fulfill her desire to help people, especially children. While studying Psychology she realized how people can be greatly affected by the quality of their environment. She observed how improving interior spaces was another way she could combine her passion for design and to create with her desire to help others.

Juliet studied interior design at the Design Institute of San Diego and will be graduating in 2014 with a bachelors in Interior design at the Art Institute of California, San Francisco. Throughout her education Juliet has learned what a key role the art of lighting plays in the success of a space. While attending an IIDA event for students, Juliet was introduced to Inga Birkenstock and the profession of lighting design, and a new passion was ignited.

Juliet brings her strong interior design background, as well as a variety of technical and design skills to BIRKENSTOCK LIGHTING DESIGN, such as her 3-D knowledge in Revit, Calculations and excellent CAD drafting skills.

Experience / Lighting Design

Birkenstock Lighting Design / San Geronimo, CA

- 2013-present
- Jr. Lighting Designer / Intern
 - Assists in all aspects of production and detailing as needed (AutoCAD and REVIT)
 - Performs lighting calculations
 - 3D presentation production for interior spaces and light renderings
 - Studies and creates 3-D Models for the purposes of understanding architecture and interiors
 - Conducts Design Research
 - Constructs in house mock ups
 - Assists with Powerpoint presentations for principal

- Education
- Art Institute of California – San Francisco: Bachelors of Science in Interior Design Candidate
 - Design Institute of San Diego
 - Chico State University - Psychology

- Memberships
- AiCA-SF Interior Design Club, Vice President